

About 1 in 6 children in the U.S. has one or more developmental disabilities, such as autism spectrum disorders, cerebral palsy, fragile x syndrome, and others. Some conditions can be identified before a baby is even born while others may be identified in early childhood.

If you've noticed that your child isn't reaching milestones for his or her age, speak to a doctor. It's important to share your concerns as soon as you notice a problem because early screening and intervention can positively affect a child's ability to learn.

Get more information about developmental disabilities.